SMALL CONNECTIONS.
COLLECTIVE CHANGE.

दीर्घमायुः
कृणोतु मे

This year, we found ourselves living through transformations.

Like ants working together to move something far greater than any one of them could carry alone, our journey has been shaped by association. A patient connects with a doctor. A village connects with a weekly OPD. A survey connects a hidden need with an intervention. A volunteer connects a programme with a community. A supporter connects intention with possibility.

THE MORPHOSIS

What began as individual efforts is increasingly becoming a connected system of care. For us, morphosis is not about becoming something entirely different. It is about evolving what already exists learning from experience, responding to what we discover, and finding new ways for every part to contribute to the whole.

SMALL CONNECTIONS. COLLECTIVE CHANGE.

This year, we did not simply grow in scale. We grew in how we connect, how we listen, how we respond, and how we build for what comes next.

A YEAR OF EVOLUTION, CONNECTION AND COLLECTIVE PURPOSE

To enrich healthcare landscape by making not-for-profit services the benchmark for the future social order, establishing a multi-tiered healthcare delivery system grounded in technology, innovation, and time-tested indigenous medical practices, where holistic wellness is the norm.

VISION

This year marked a meaningful shift in our journey. While the previous year laid the foundation for reaching communities and strengthening our programmes, this year saw those efforts becoming more connected, more structured and more deeply integrated into the way we deliver care.
At Dr. Hedgewar Hospital, growing patient engagement was accompanied by a broader range of clinical services.

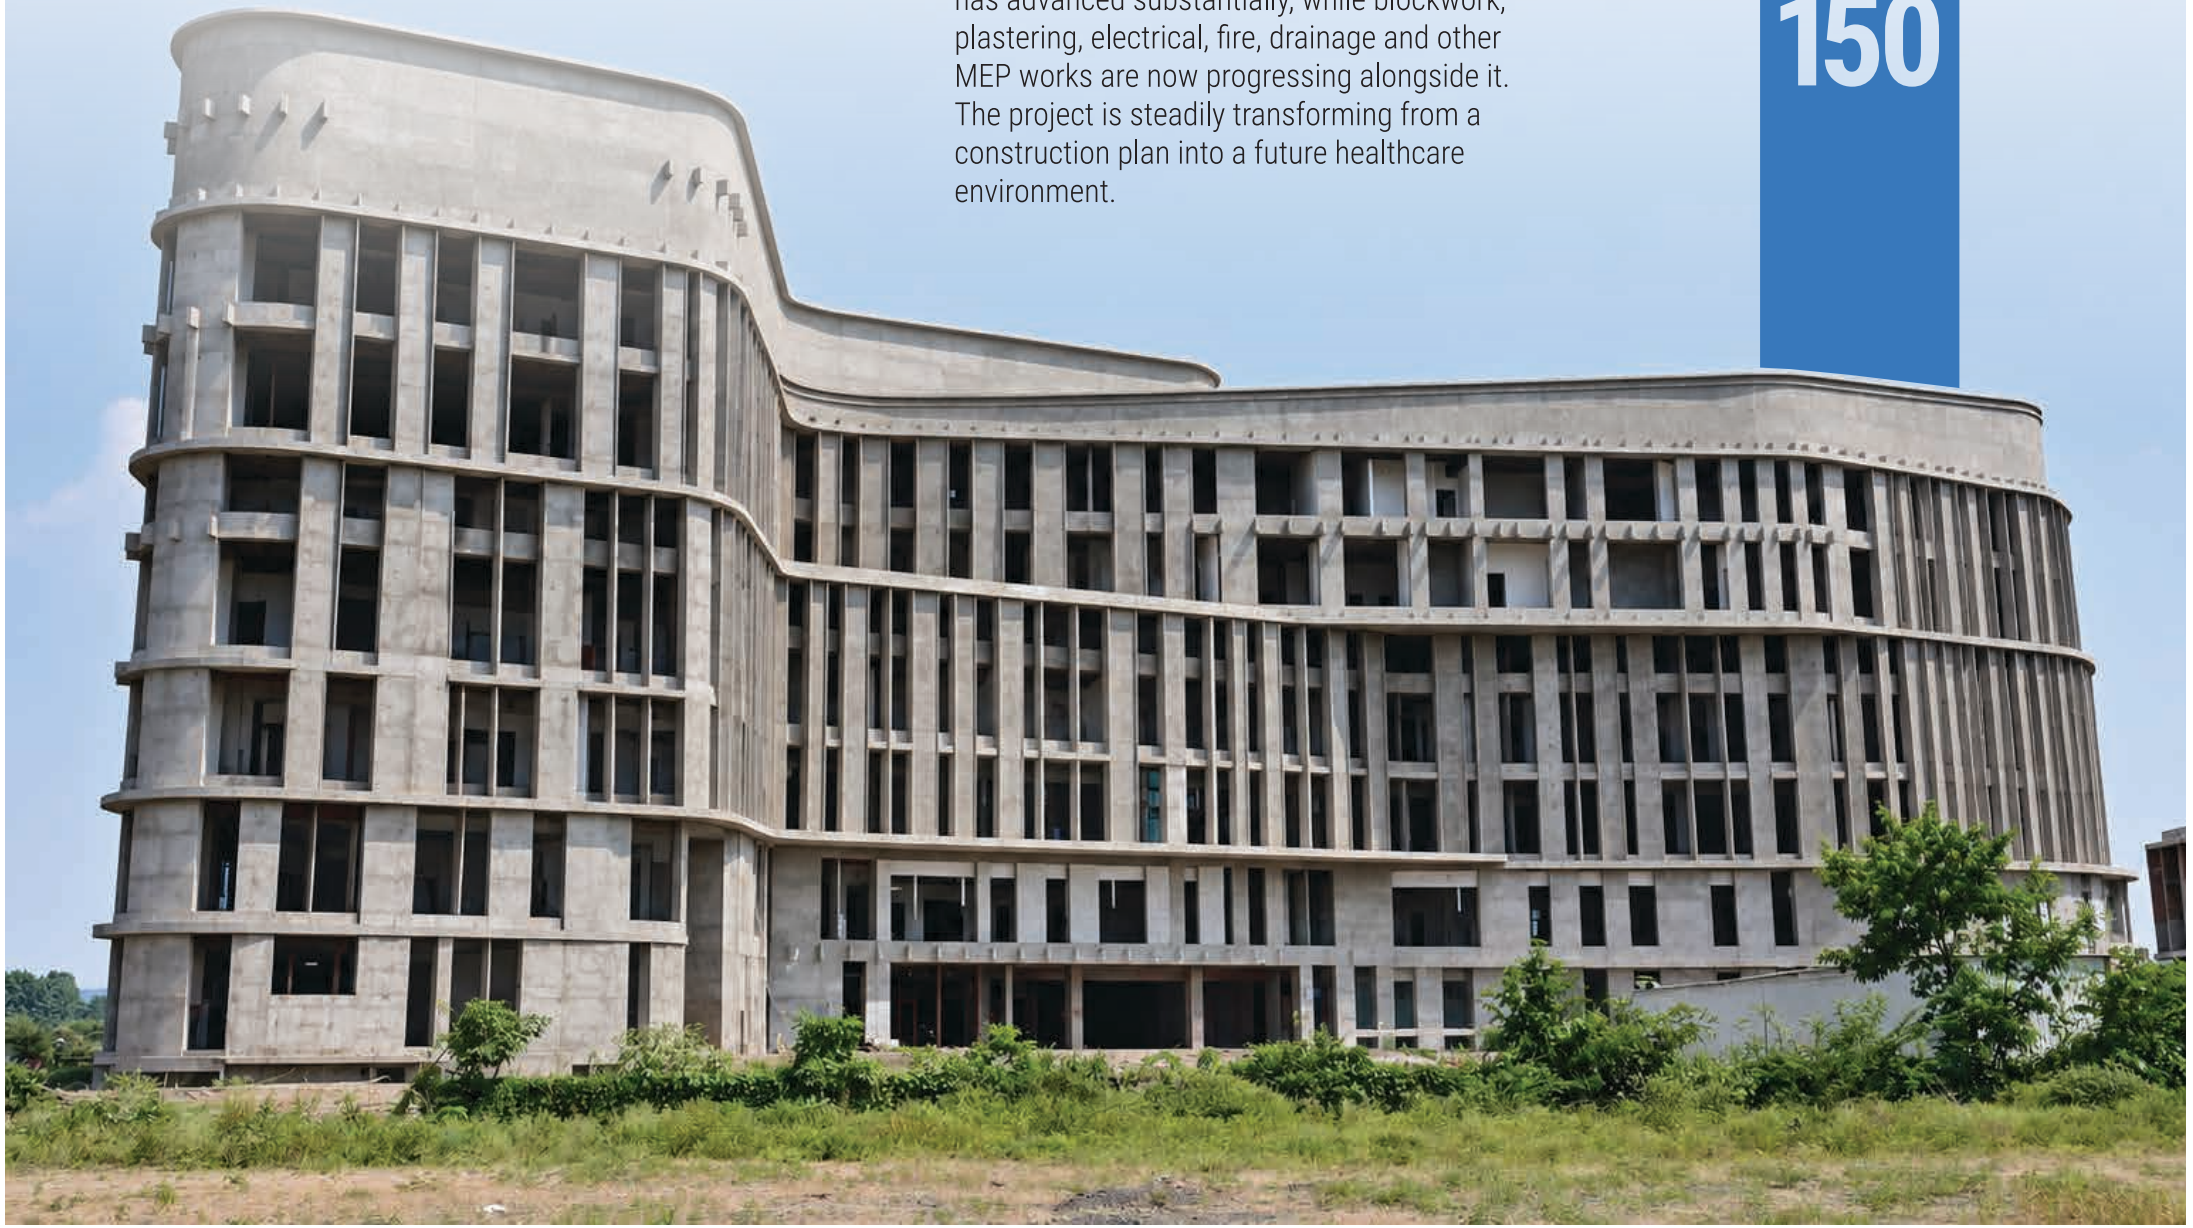

Through Samvedana, our work evolved from reaching communities to listening more closely to their health realities through systematic surveys, regular OPDs and targeted interventions. Project 150 moved visibly from vision towards physical progress, while Sushrut strengthened the connection between patient care, academics and research. Across these efforts, we have been learning to work not as separate programmes, but as parts of one larger ecosystem of care. This, for us, is the real transformation of the year: not simply doing more, but becoming better connected in how we listen, respond, learn and build for the future.

- On behalf of the Hospital Leadership

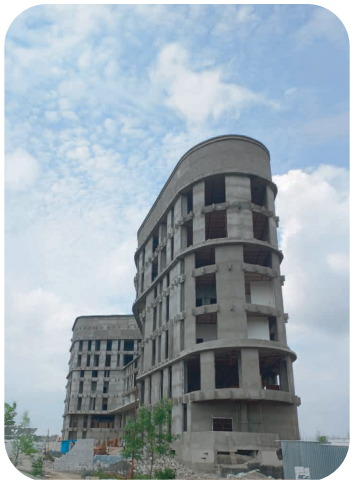

PROJECT 150

Project 150 has moved from vision to visible progress. The hospital's structural framework has advanced substantially, while blockwork, plastering, electrical, fire, drainage and other MEP works are now progressing alongside it. The project is steadily transforming from a construction plan into a future healthcare environment.

Healthcare Outreach Initiative

TAKING CARE CLOSER

Samvedana has moved beyond the idea of simply taking healthcare to the doorstep. This year, the programme worked towards understanding the communities it serves more deeply, expanding village clusters, strengthening weekly OPDs and using systematic surveys to identify health risks before they become crises.

The work now connects three essential steps: listening to communities, understanding their health realities, and building a response around what the evidence reveals.

604 Average Monthly Patients

5 Clusters

20 Weekly OPDs

676 OPD Sessions

39 camps & talks

43 Villages

1941 camp Beneficiaries

Samvedana is beginning to function less like a collection of isolated camps and more like a connected network of care.

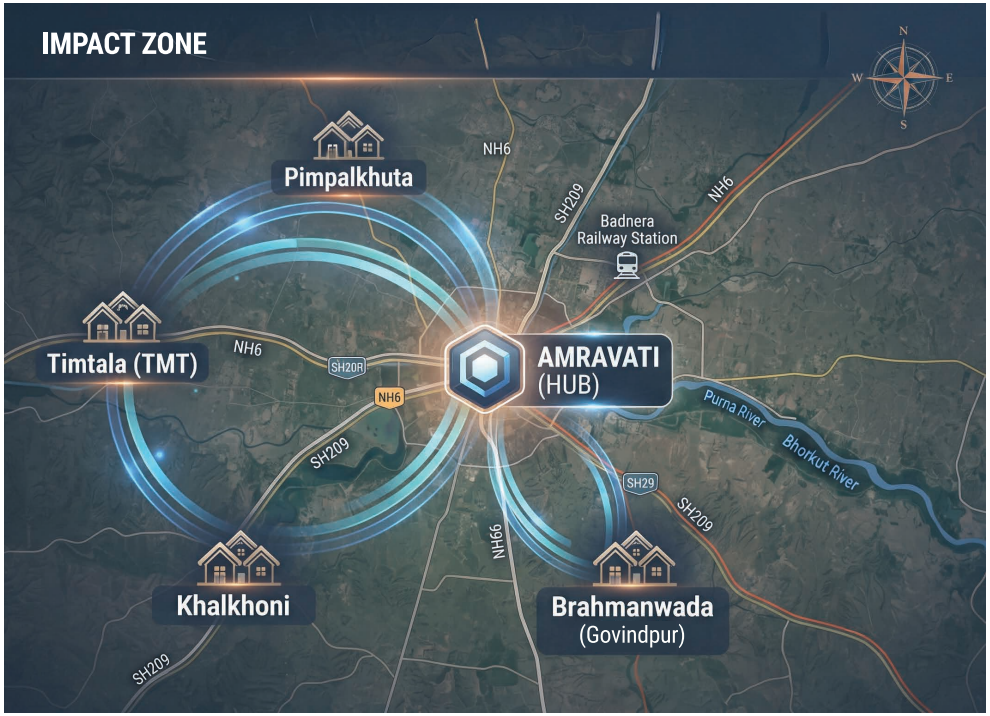

With weekly OPDs, a strengthened village network, and a daily centre at Timtala, we are building continuity into rural healthcare.

Each location is a node in a larger system, bringing services closer to communities, enabling early detection, and building trust, one community at a time.

Dr. HEDGEWAR HOSPITAL
Multispeciality Charitable Hospital

This yearbook presents the current figures using consolidated hospital records, with a focus on clear definitions for patient visits, admissions, surgeries and charitable support. This approach strengthens year-on-year comparability and supports transparent reporting of the hospital's work.

At Dr. Hedgewar Hospital, every encounter is an opportunity to make quality healthcare equal. Through outpatient consultations, inpatient care, surgeries and diagnostic services, the hospital continues to serve patients with a commitment to affordability and dignity.

Beyond treatment, each service strengthens the larger mission of compassionate, not-for-profit healthcare, ensuring that people can seek the care they need with greater confidence and support.

CARE THAT CANNOT PAUSE

For a person living with kidney failure, treatment is not a single event. It is a recurring part of life, shaped by clinical need, access to care and the reliability of the people and systems around them.

At Dr. Hedgewar Hospital, Nephrocare brings together dialysis infrastructure, specialised clinical supervision and emergency support to sustain this continuity of care. With four Fresenius dialysis machines and services spanning haemodialysis, Sustained Low-Efficiency Dialysis (SLED) and plasmapheresis, the unit supports patients with differing clinical needs. A team of four dialysis technicians works under nephrologist supervision, with permacath insertion available for long-term vascular access.

The significance of this work lies not only in the number of sessions delivered, but in the continuity we make possible for people whose treatment cannot simply be postponed.

SUSHRUT ARCHIVES

At Dr. Hedgewar Hospital, care extends beyond treatment. It also means asking better questions, building evidence and exploring how medical science can improve patient outcomes.

During 2025–26, Sushrut Archives continued to strengthen the connection between clinical practice and research. Building on the establishment of the Academics & Research Department in December 2024 and subsequent ethics committee collaborations, the hospital advanced its clinical research journey.

A significant milestone was the hospital's participation in a clinical trial with SERUM INSTITUTE OF INDIA, PUNE - for a Dengue Monoclonal Antibody Study. The first patient was enrolled in 2025, marking an important step in the hospital's growing research capability.

In 2026, a further collaboration with INDO GERMAN SCIENCE AND TECHNOLOGY CENTRE opened another avenue of research through an AI-enabled study exploring sleep quality, stress and recovery using non-invasive, pulse-based digital phenotyping.

These developments represent more than institutional milestones. They reflect a growing commitment to evidence-based healthcare, where the experience of treating patients can also contribute to learning, discovery and better-informed care.

Healthy Sundays was envisioned as three themed sessions every quarter, focusing on mental health, healthy eating and care for caregivers. However, we struggled to maintain the planned frequency and conducted only one session this year.

Session of “Care for Caregivers,” held on 16 May 25 during Nursing Week, featured counsellor and educator Ms. Ujjwala Kulkarni, who shared practical guidance and inspiring insights with caregivers. The occasion also marked the launch of the hospital’s Shree Award initiative.

While the session created meaningful engagement, we recognise that fell short of events to fulfill our aspirations. We choose quality over quantity, but remain committed to improving planning and consistency so Healthy Sundays can grow into the sustained initiative it is meant to be

CLARITY
COLLABORATION
GROWTH

During 2025–26, Janakalyan Seva Sanstha advanced its organisational development journey through UDAAN, an initiative focused on leadership, teamwork and long-term institutional growth.

The revised organogram reflects an effort to establish clearer reporting relationships, define responsibilities and strengthen coordination across clinical services, administration, Samvedana and Niramay Wellness.

Supported by eight sessions involving 64 participants from top, middle and frontline management, the initiative addressed leadership, communication, conflict management, management hierarchy and job descriptions. A stronger structure creates the foundation for better coordination, shared accountability and sustainable growth.
